GENERAL NOTICES

1.0 Patent Applications published under Section 42 and Regulation 35.

1.1 National Application

(21) Application no.: KE/P/2020/3772 (22) Filing Date: 21/12/2020

(51) Int.Cl.

(54) Title: METHOD AND SYSTEM FOR REMOTE MANAGEMENT OF ACCESS TO APPLIANCES

(72) Inventors: DOUGLAS JAMES RICKET and JAIDEEP MIRCHANDANI

(73) Applicant(s): PAYJOY INC 655 4TH STREET, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, 94107, U.S.A.

(74) Agent: J.K MUCHAE & COMPANY ADVOCATES, P.O BOX 60664- 00200, NAIROBI, Kenya

(57) Embodiments described herein include methods and systems for remotely managing appliances, including enabling communication between a user of the appliance and third party systems. The third party systems include any entity that has a relationship with the user of the appliance, such as a payment infrastructure handling incremental payments for the appliance, and managing access to the appliance accordingly. In some embodiments, the appliance being controlled is a mobile phone that also includes third party operating system software. Various methods for preventing alteration or replacement of the third party operating system are also described.

The system continuously monitors the patient's body parameters, displays them on screen and regularly update the data on the doctor's mobile phone in real time. This will ensure that the doctor has maximum update and monitoring of the patient's conditions in real time while attending to other duties. This will save medical staff the time they take to frequently get into the ICU or HDU to check on the patient's conditions as it is the case with the current machines. The system will also be able to sound an alarm if any or all the patient's conditions are not optimum. Multiple technologies (SMS, Bluetooth, Wi-Fi) will be utilized in data transmission to the doctor to avoid communication failure. Biometric Access Control and RFID technology will be utilized to ensure the security of the system, only allowed medical staff will be able to operate and change the parameters of the machine through its HMI. The staff will use their RFID cards to identify themselves and then present their fingerprints to prove that they are who they claim to be before the system turns on for them to be able to use it on patients.

(72) Inventors: SAM MUTUURA

(73) Applicant(s): CROSS GATE SOLUTIONS LIMITED, P.O. BOX 175-00606 NAIROBI, Kenya

(57) The present invention discloses a computer-operated system and process for micro-fundraising by utilizing flash messages as call pledge badges using calling airtime of mobile hand-held devices. The system comprises a funds drive registry, user's subscription module via USSD to the service, an activation module, a means of donation and public portal. The said system comprises an incoming call pledge badge, out-going call pledge badge, memory and service activation flow through a website, USSD Code and Short Code. The said call pledge badge legs are set by customer/person according to preference. When customer/person A calls person B and if person B is available, then person A receives a class 0 message set by person B on call termination designed to facilitate donations for emergency, educational, medical and social needs such as drought, hunger or epidemics.

Disclosed in the invention is a steel and ceramic fire chamber cook stove 100, comprising a ceramic combustion chamber 13, three support stands 1, stainless wire mesh 6, a frame, outer body cover 2, air inlet door 5, bottom lid 10 at the base and other members. The combustion chamber outer cover 2 is attached to the top lid 4 and bottom lid 10. The top lid is manufactured from stainless steel or cast iron. On the surface of the cover, are placed sturdy ergo designed four pot support holders 3 to increase stability while cooking. The distance between the pot and the flame from the cook stove is designed to allow effective heat transfer to avoid wastage. The cast iron cover assumes a dark colour finished to suit different cook stove fuel using charcoal, wood, briquette.

(57) Abstract:

The present invention relates generally to a system that allows a customer to get cash when paying their bills and more specifically to a system and method for providing cash advances. The invention discloses a system that allows a customer to get cash when paying their bills and more specifically to a system and method for providing cash advances comprising of:- A Mini App that allows the client to input the till, the bill amount and cash to withdraw; A cloud application hosted on AWS that processes the requests and sends a message to the merchant requesting them to give funds to the customer and also does the commission sharing; An ERP that allows real time reporting and A USSD Application that serves customers with feature phones. It is in this invention that the cloud application is further divided to: A queueing service that queues and processes the call back notifications from the service providers; A C2B service that handles C2B call backs and inserts them to a database for the ERP System; A B2B Service that automates the splitting of partner commissions and saves the records on a DB for the ERP System and report generation; Database to hold C2B and the B2B records and A web ERP application for report generation and settlement

Fe³⁺ and combinations thereof; 10-49.97 mol% of non-iron cations selected from Na⁺, K⁺, Ca²⁺, NH₄⁺ and combinations thereof; 16-70.2 mol% of Cl⁻; 0-30 mol% of anions selected from SO₄²⁻, citrate, fumarate and combinations thereof; • at least 3 wt.% of taste imparting components selected from glutamate, sugars, pieces of plant material and combinations thereof; 0-30 wt.% of oil; • 0-10 wt.% water. The savoury concentrate of the present invention offers the advantage that the iron contained therein is highly bioavailable. Furthermore, the iron-containing salt particles contained in the savoury concentrate do not give rise to unacceptable colour changes.

A direct current path of the charging circuit is separated by the capacitive coupling element. In other words, a direct current path is not present on the charging circuit, so that when the first circuit fails, direct current outputted by the charging interface is not directly outputted to the second circuit and the battery, thereby improving the reliability of the charging circuit.

(51) Int.Cl.2016.01: A 01N 63/04

(57): The invention relates to describe host-specific extracellular phytotoxins produced by Fusarium sp. That has a phytotoxic to Lantana camara. A novel method using phytotoxin has been developed for controlling Lantana camara, these phytotoxin can be used partially pure, as a cell- and spore-free filtrate, a crude filtrate, or a crude suspension of the culture and optionally along with other additives. 18s rRNA sequence analysis showed 93% nucleotide similarity of the Fungi to Fusarium sp. But also indicated nucleotide variation of this fungus from other known genus of Nectaria, Mariannaea, Volutella, Myrothecium. This analysis suggested that the novel fungus is closest to Fusarium sp. It is proposed that this is a new species of Fusarium sp.

(57) Abstract: The invention relates to a portable liquid dispenser for dispensing preselected quantities of liquid on demand from a liquid receptacle comprising a housing containing a pump driven response to motor activation signals received from a microcontroller, a microcontroller, a battery and a flow control handle at which the desired quantity of liquid to be delivered can be dispersed through. The pump is connected by way of flexible liquid dispensing tubes connected to the respective liquid inlet and liquid outlet ports of the pump. A filter is connected to the liquid inlet tube while the liquid outlet tube is connected to a flow control handle containing a flow sensor, solenoid valve and spout nozzle. The flow sensor pulses when liquid flows through it, for the microcontroller to process into volumes of liquid. The microcontroller calculates the cumulative volume of liquid dispensed and produces a signal for closing of the solenoid valve when the preselected quantity has been dispensed

(57) Abstract: The present invention relates to an aqueous gel formulation and its method of preparation using combination of four or five medicinal plants for preventing sexually transmitted HIV-1. The gel formulation comprises 50% aqueous ethanolic extracts of medicinal plants namely Terminalia chebula, Phyllanthus emblica, Lagerstroemia speciosa, Acacia catechu and/or Aegle marmelos. The invention provides an herbal formulation useful as a vaginal/rectal microbicide gel. These herbal formulations showed potent in vitro anti-HIV-1 activity using reporter-gene based cell lines (TZM-bl) as well as human peripheral blood lymphocytes. These formulations also inhibited HIV-1 reverse transcriptase, integrase and protease activities suggesting that these may be working at multiple steps/stages of HIV life cycle and thus may be a valuable tool for alternative therapy.

(51) Int.Cl.: F 01C 1/077, F 01C 1/18, F 01K 13/00, F 01K 7/36

(57) Abstract: A heat machine (121) for realizing a heat cycle, the heat machine operating with a thermal fluid and comprising a drive unit (1) provided with a first rotor (4) and a second rotor (5), each having three pistons (7a, 7b,7c; 9a,9b,9c) that are slidable in an annular chamber (12), wherein the pistons delimit six variable-volume chambers (13', 13", 13""; 14', 14", 14""). The drive unit comprises a transmission configured to convert the rotary motion with respective first and second periodically variable angular velocities (İ%1, İ%2) of said first and second rotor (4, 5), offset from each other, into a rotary motion at a constant angular velocity. The heat machine further comprises a compensation tank (44), configured to accumulate the compressed thermal fluid from the drive unit, a regenerator (42) configured to preheat the thermal fluid, a heater (41) configured to superheat the thermal fluid circulating in the serpentine coil, a burner (40), configured to supply the necessary thermal energy to the heater (41); wherein the regenerator (42), in fluid communication with the drive unit (1), is further configured to acquire energy-heat from the exhausted thermal fluid and use it to preheat the thermal fluid to be sent to the heater (41). The invention further relates to a method for realizing a heat cycle by means of said heat machine.

The core construction elements (1) each include, in section, a cross including two main arms (6) of equal length which intersect at midlength at right angle. Each core construction element (1) has a plane of symmetry about the axes of the arms. The main arms (6) of the cross terminate, at the ends thereof, with transverse portions (7). Each surrounding construction element (2A, 2B) is composed of four partial surrounding parts (2A, 2B, 2Aâ€™™, 2Bâ€™™) of a generally triangular shape which are assembled around a core element (1). Construction elements forming junction parts (4A, 4B) allow assembling panels (4A, 4B) to form a module of a building in the form of a rectangular parallelepiped volume comprising four corners.

(57) Abstract: According to certain embodiments, a method implemented in a wireless device comprises determining configuration data representing a set of configurations. The method comprises receiving at least one reference signal from a transmission point. The receiving of the at least one reference signal is performed in accordance with a configuration selected from the set, wherein the configuration is related to uplink power control and is specific to an uplink channel or signal or a group thereof. The method comprises measuring a propagation-related quantity on the basis of the at least one reference signal and deriving an uplink power setting on the basis of the measured propagation-related quantity.

(57) Abstract: A network node and wireless device and methods for switching between an active bandwidth part and the target bandwidth part. According to one aspect a method in a network node comprises selecting one or more resource blocks comprised in the target bandwidth part for a transmission or reception between the wireless device and the network node. The method further comprises indicating the selected resource blocks to be used in the target bandwidth part in a resource allocation field of a downlink control channel information in the active bandwidth part, the allocation field comprising information bits and wherein the resource allocation field in the active bandwidth part and the information bits therein are configured based on a target bandwidth part resource allocation type wherein the target bandwidth part resource allocation type indicates whether the information bits comprise a bitmap corresponding to one or more resource block groups or an integer value corresponding to a starting resource block and a length of the allocation in resource blocks.

(54) Title: Gaming machine, system and method for playing a feature game

(51) Int.Cl.: G 07F 17/32

(57) Abstract: A gaming system and method involving a fixed bonus code and dynamic game code wherein one or more players playing multiple designated electronic gaming machines attempt to match a dynamic game code to the bonus code to win a fixed jackpot or progressive jackpot. The game code symbols adjust randomly (i.e., change) responsive to each play of a corresponding electronic gaming machine. Once a game code symbol matches a corresponding bonus code symbol, the game code symbol locks up such that the matching game code symbol cannot adjust again until the jackpot is won based on each game code symbol matching a corresponding bonus code symbol. Different electronic gaming machines may be re-assigned to drive different game code symbols as needed.

(57) Abstract: Bio-Methanated Spent wash Evaporation Process Using Multi Stage Degassing System The present invention discloses a two stage degassing system for defoaming of bio-methanated spent wash wherein the spent wash is degassed at lower temperature and higher vacuum in the first stage and at higher temperature and lower vacuum in the second stage in multi tray column and/or a third stage thermo-mechanical degassing before it is subjected to multiple effect evaporation for concentration. The invention also discloses use of an optional pressure spray ring instead of fresh steam to deactivate the mycelium more effectively and also reduce the energy consumption of the overall evaporation unit. The invention further discloses a reactor design wherein two stage degassing of bio-methanated spent wash can be performed.

The control method for battery charging is applied to a charging process of an intelligent terminal by a power adapter. The method includes: detecting, whether the power adapter is operable under a constant current output, and a maximum current value of the constant current; controlling the power adapter to output in the constant current with the maximum current value in a preset charging phase, when the constant current output is detected operable. According to the present technical solution, the intelligent terminal can cooperate with a power supply operable under the constant current output, to charge the battery with a high efficiency, reduce the heat and power loss in charging.

The present application further discloses a device for generating a painting image, a terminal and a storage medium. According to the present application, the painter may select a painting template from different pictures according to individual needs or wishes to perform the painting operation. It avoids the problem that individual needs of the painter may not be satisfied due to limitation of the terminal storage space, and limitation of picture templates built in the painting application. In addition, it avoids occupying a large amount of terminal memory due to the large number of image templates built in the painting application.

(51) Int.Cl.: A 01M 1/06
(57) Abstract: The invention relates to an insect trap (10) and a method for attracting and/or capturing flying insects and/or insect pests (12). The trap (10) has a suction opening (14) which continues into a suction channel (16), in which there is an air flow (18) applying the suction opening (14) with a negative pressure or with a suction flow, and leading to an internal space (20) of the insect trap (10). The trap (10) also has a surface which surrounds the suction channel (16) near the suction opening (14), encases the suction channel (16) in a further region at a varying radial distance, widens in a direction parallel to the direction of the air flow (18) passing through the suction channel (16), and is at least partially permeable to out-flowing air (24), and which forms at least one part of an outer wall (22) of the insect trap (10). In addition, an end or base side (28) is provided, which is connected to the outer wall (22), is substantially impermeable to in- or out-flowing air, and is positioned opposite the suction opening (14), and which is at least slightly spaced apart from an open end side (30) of the suction channel (16) extending into the internal space (20) of the trap (10).

(54) Title: ECCENTRIC VIBRATOR SYSTEMS AND METHODS
(51) Int.Cl.: B 06B 1/16
(57) Abstract: An apparatus that generates vibrational motion is disclosed. The apparatus includes a first mass, a second mass, a drive system, and a control system. The first mass is eccentrically mounted on, and configured to rotate about, a first shaft. The second mass is eccentrically mounted on, and configured to rotate about, a second shaft, with first and second shafts sharing a common axis. The drive system imparts rotational motion to first and second shafts, and the control system controls rotational frequencies, directions, and initial angles of the first and second masses. Linear, elliptical, or circular vibratory motion of the apparatus may be induced by controlling such rotational properties of the first and second masses. The apparatus may include a measurement device that measures angular position and/or velocity of the first and second masses. The control system may control the vibrational motion based on measurements taken by the measurement device.

 (54) Title: Improvements to downhole surveying and core sample orientation systems, devices and methods
 (51) Int.Cl.: E 21B 47/02, E 21B 25/16
 (57) Abstract: A method and system of validating orientation of a core obtained by drilling the core from a subsurface body of material, the method including: a) determining that vibration from drilling is below a nominated level, b) recording data relating to orientation of the core to be retrieved, the data recorded using a downhole core orientation data recording device, c) separating the core from the subsurface body, and d) obtaining from the core orientation data recording device an indication of the orientation of the core based on the recorded data obtained when the vibration from drilling was below the nominated level and before the core was separated from the subsurface body. A method of determining orientation of a core sample obtained by drilling from aboveground into a subsurface body includes recording data relating to a core sample being obtained by the drilling when vibration from drilling is below a threshold; providing an input to a user operated communication device; the communication device identifying a time of the user input to the communication device; retrieving the data gathering device and core sample; communicating between the communication device and the retrieved data gathering device; determining from indications provided by the retrieved data gathering device an orientation of the core sample.

Disclosed in the present invention a food packaging punnet. The said plant fiber punnet is made of bagasse, banana, wheat/rice straw, bamboo and recycled paper material that are compostable, biodegradable and affordable alternative punnetts for fruits and vegetable food packaging. The plant fiber punnet further comprises fruit and vegetable punnetts made from virgin banana, bagasse wheat/rice straw, bamboo pulp and recycled paper, and food grade corn/cassava starch-based bio adhesive material that are used, bio based water proofing barrier that is used instead of a plastic barrier, elongated shelf life as long as the food product itself and not the life of the planet i.e., thousands of years, and 100% biodegradable and compostable in a backyard compost. Also disclosed is a process of manufacturing plant fiber punnet comprising bagasse, banana, wheat/rice straw, bamboo and recycled paper material and consisting a series of steps.

It is the principle of the carbonated Beverage maker that after filtering the tap water through the filter or use Bottle water directly, it enters the carbonator and mixes with carbon dioxide gas to form carbonated water wherein the Carbonated water and syrup are cooled in the Chilled water coil through independent pipes and then the cooled carbonated water and syrup are released by mixing them in a certain proportion through the distribution valve, and become a frozen and refreshing carbonated Beverage.

 (54) Title: REUSABLE SANITARY PAD
 (57) Disclosed in the present invention is a reusable sanitary pad. The said pad comprises small pads, large pads, liner holders, liners and fastening plastic buttons. The pad is used by women during their menstrual period. The pad has winged back and front outer layers made of 100% knitted cotton material, wherein the front outer layer further comprises 100% woven cotton kitenge. In addition, the pad has an inner absorbing layer made of natural 100% cotton material configured to absorb the menses liquid, disposed below the inner absorbing layer and having air permeability. When not in use, the said pad has a width of about 70 mm and can be closed by a pair of fastening plastic buttons. Also disclosed is a panty liner of about 3 mm thick and up to about 45 mm.

11.0 Trade Marks

11.1 Applications accepted for registration

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the Registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to these classes may within sixty (60) days from the date of this Journal, lodge a notice of opposition on form TM. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Ksh.5,000/= (local opponent) or US$ 250 (foreign opponent). The period of lodging the notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he deems fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after a reasonable notice has been given in writing to the applicant for registration to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

11.6 Madrid Applications accepted for registration

The following are the marks whose international registration has been notified to Kenya as a designated contracting Party by the International Bureau, World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) and which are governed by the Madrid Agreement and the Madrid Protocol. The prescribed period of twelve (12) months and eighteen months (18) respectively for refusal of the marks commences from the notification date indicated herein for each mark.

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the marks may, in accordance with the provisions of rule 11(1) of the Trade Marks (International Registration) Rules 2003, file a notice of opposition within sixty (60) days from the date of this Journal on form TM. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Ksh 5,000/= (Kenyan residents) or US$ 250 (non residents).

The period of filing the notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar of Trade Marks as prescribed in the Trade Mark Rules. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar before the expiry of the sixty (60) day statutory period.

All the details of the marks advertised herein are available on WIPO's website www.wipo.int/romarin

3. Patent Cooperation Treaty

The Patent Cooperation Treaty (PCT) is an international patent protection treaty consisting of over 140 member states. PCT is administered by the World Intellectual Property Organization in Geneva Switzerland. PCT makes it possible for an applicant to seek patent protection for an invention simultaneously in any of the selected member states by filing one application. PCT is a filing system and does not grant patents on behalf of the member states. Applications must enter national phase in the selected member states. In the national phase, the applicant is required to pay the prescribed national fees in the said member states. Further, in some member states, a foreign applicant is required to have a resident agent. The PCT fees as of 1st May 2011 are as follows:

Type of fee	Fee		Fee waivers
International filing fee	USD 1, 367 or CHF 1330		90% waiver for a natural person from Kenya
