GENERAL NOTICES

24th November, 2025Public Notice*Launch of the Patent Online Filing System

The Institute is pleased to announce a significant milestone in our commitment to enhancing service delivery and embracing digital transformation. This is in line with the Government's digitalization of public services aimed at improving efficiency, accessibility and inclusivity as spelt out under the Bottom-Up Economic Transformation Agenda (BETA)'s 5th core pillar, the Digital Superhighway and Creative Economy.

We have officially launched our new Online Filing System, a secure and user-friendly platform designed to streamline the application process for industrial property (IP) rights.

With this new system, clients can now file and make payments for the following National Applications entirely online, from anywhere and at any time: -

- i. Patents
- ii. Industrial Designs; and
- iii. Utility Models

The e-Filing System is expected to bring benefits including 24/7 convenience whereby clients can file their applications outside of the traditional office working hours, ensure faster processing and enhance cost-effectiveness thereby saving on traveling, printing, and physical document handling costs.

The e-filing portal is live and accessible via the KIPi website under e-services menu at (<https://patentonline.kipi.go.ke/efiling/>). Additional information on how to use the e-filing system is available on the Institute's website www.kipi.go.ke.

All clients are encouraged to use this platform. For any assistance, contact us on Tel: 0702002020 and 0736002020 or email ict@kipi.go.ke.

The Institute remains dedicated to fostering innovation and protection of IP in Kenya. The launch of this e-filing system is a testament to our ongoing efforts to modernize our services and better serve you.

We look forward to providing you with a more efficient and modern filing experience.

John Onyango
Managing Director
Kenya Industrial Property Institute

(54) Title: WORKLOAD MANAGER (WORKMAN)- AN APPLICATION TO MANAGE ORGANIZATIONS' WORKLOAD, EQUIPMENT AND RESOURCES

(72) Inventors: KIONI P. NDIRANGU and WANDETO JOHN MWANGI (73) Applicant(s): WANDETO JOHN MWANGIKIONI P. NDIRANGU PRIVATE BAG, 10143, DEDAN KIMATHI, Kenya and PRIVATE BAG, 10143, DEDAN KIMATHI, Kenya

(74) Agent: DEDAN KIMATHI UNIVERSITY OF TECHNOLOGY,

(57) To attain optimal performance within an organization, managers must utilize the available workforce and resources through tasks assignment. In a university setting, for example, lecturers have to be assigned units to teach and laboratories for students to carry out experiments. The objectives to be achieved within the academic year form the basis of the allocation of the resources to be used in teaching, research, and the administration of the university. The managers will then like to monitor the delivery and attendance of the set lessons. On the other hand, the lecturers and the support staff, such as laboratory technicians, may be interested in knowing their performance in order to make decisions that can assist in future improvement. Workman application enables duty allocations, monitoring and evaluation. PRIVATE BAG, 10143, DEDAN KIMATHI

(57) System and Method for Converting Geospatial Zipped Keyhole Markup Language (KMZ) Data into Simulation-Ready mathematical model in a high-level numerical computing environment for power system simulation of an Electrical Distribution Network. A system and method for converting Zipped Keyhole Markup Language (KMZ) data to a simulation-ready model of an electrical distribution network. The system parses Zipped Keyhole Markup Language (KMZ) geospatial data, classifies network components using metadata-driven rules, and algorithmically heals topological gaps to produce a digital model. The system generates mathematical models for power flow analysis from existing GIS data for network planning and diagnostics.

(57) The invention relates to a multi-compound pharmaceutical composition comprising eight validated bioactive compounds riboflavin, thymidine 5' -triphosphate, 2-( 4-isobutylphenyl) propionic acid, caffeic acid, L-p-homotryptophan, N-formyl-L-methionine, galactopyranose, and glycyl-Lproline, for the treatment of cervical cancer. Prepared from Solanecio manni or validated plant sources, or commercial sources, the formulation demonstrates selective cytotoxicity against cervical cancer cells, with a validated selectivity index of 2.37. Network pharmacology and qPCR analyses confirm multi-target inhibition, including NFKB 1, PIK3CA, HIF 1 A, ST A T3, and HSP90AA 1, among others. The formulation acts through synergistic, multi-pathway mechanisms, inducing apoptosis, DNA damage, endoplasmic reticulum stress, and G2/M cell cycle arrest. It remains effective against HPV -positive and drug-resistant cervical cancer cells. Methods are provided for compound extraction, purification, formulation, and treatment, with options for oral or injectable pharmaceutical compositions. The invention addresses unmet needs in cervical cancer therapy by offering a novel, validated, multi-compound alternative to conventional treatments.

74) Agent: ,

(57) An integrated funeral welfare and claims management system comprising a client-facing member registration application , an administrative claims management platform , and a backend processing engine with compliance and audit modules. The system provides real-time member onboarding, contribution tracking, funeral claims verification, and automated benefits disbursement. A unique compliance engine enforces waiting-period rules, fraud detection, and digital record authentication. A multi-level access structure ensures secure handling of member data, while the monitoring dashboard (24) provides performance analytics for decision-making. The system enhances transparency, reduces fraud, and ensures dignified, timely funeral support to members and their beneficiaries.

(73) Applicant(s): PATEL SAHIL. J. P. O. BOX 2139-00606 NAIROBI, Kenya

(74) Agent: ,

(57) A computer-implemented method and system for optimizing aircraft fleet assignments and routing for on-demand flight scheduling. Passenger bookings are mapped to aircraft using Hybrid Evolutionary-Nested

Annealing Search (HENAS), which interleaves population-based evolution with embedded simulated annealing and a nested hierarchical annealing refinement under time, fuel, and weight constraints. A penalty-based feasibility engine ensures compliance. After initial optimization, passenger transfers and overnight parking are planned to reduce fuel consumption and improve schedule alignment. Historical best routes are cached for reuse, and parallel processing accelerates evaluation, yielding a scalable, adaptive alternative to manual dispatch planning.

(74) Agent: AARON O.& ASSOCIATES ADVOCATES,
(57) The invention relates to a solar-powered and hybrid solar-powered boat designed for sustainable water transport. It vessel incorporates photovoltaic solar arrays mounted on the canopy to capture solar energy, which is regulated by a charge controller and stored in a lithium-ion battery bank secured within the hull. The stored energy powers an electric motor at the stern connected to the propeller shaft, with a control console enabling drive mode management. The system allows for fully autonomous operation using onboard solar power or semiautonomous operation through shore-based battery charging stations with either battery exchange or cable charging. Additionally, a hybrid configuration is provided where a fossil fuel Internal Combustion Engine (ICE) can operate either to drive the propeller shaft directly (Power Take-In mode) or as a generator supplying electricity to the motor. This integrated design enhances flexibility, reduces emissions, and ensures operational reliability in marine transport applications.P.O BOX 24664-00100, GPO NAIROBI SUITES 31, COURT 176, NYAYO APARTMENTS, FANAKA NORTH CRESCENT ROAD, EMBAKASI, P.O BOX 24664-00100, GPO NAIROBI

(57) The present invention relates to a topical antifungal composition and methods of preparation and use thereof. The composition comprises acetylsalicylic acid in an amount of about 5% to about 15% by weight, salicylic acid in an amount of about 5% to about 15% by weight, and a pharmaceutically acceptable alcohol solvent having a purity of at least 90% present in an amount of about 70% to about 90% by volume. The invention further provides a method for preparing the composition comprising sequentially dissolving acetylsalicylic acid and salicylic acid in the alcohol solvent with agitation until complete dissolution is achieved. Additionally, the invention provides a method for treating fungal skin infections including tinea pedis, tinea corporis, tinea cruris, and neurodermatitis by cleansing the affected area and topically applying the composition. The dual salicylate formulation provides synergistic anti-inflammatory, keratolytic, and antifungal effects for effective treatment of dermatophyte infections.

(57) The invention provides an automated mobile-money value-capture mechanism designed to help users accumulate savings by setting aside small amounts from every outgoing transaction. The system operates on any mobile-money wallet or integrated financial service and uses a logic engine that applies two variables to each transaction: a percentage-based deduction and a flat "coins" amount. When a user initiates a transfer, the mechanism automatically diverts the combined captured value into a separate user-owned holding wallet before the transaction is completed. This interception ensures the savings are secured at the point of transfer without requiring additional user action. The solution may function as an independent application or as an embedded feature within a bank or mobile-money operator platform. By automating micro- savings from routine transactions, the invention enables consistent value accumulation and improved financial discipline for users

(51) Int.Cl.2018.01: G 01K 7/00(2006.01), G 01K 17/00(2006.01)

(57) Abstract: A system for monitoring and predicting temperature distributions in storage facilities is disclosed. The system comprises at least one modular surface temperature sensor array positioned in contact with packaged or stacked food products, at least one microprocessor configured to receive and process data, and at least one microcontroller controlling sensor operations and array positioning. A machine learning model, executed locally on the microprocessor or remotely on an online server, is trained to correlate surface temperature measurements with internal product centre temperatures . The system further includes a storage medium for storing timestamped thermal data and a graphical user interface providing online access to measured and predicted temperature distributions. The GUI enables users to select regions of interest (ROI) from surface data for model input, enhancing monitoring accuracy, traceability, and food safety in cold storage environments.

(54) Title: Phytotherapeutic Composition from Lantana camara and Markhamia lutea Leaf Extracts for the Treatment of Toothache

(51) Int.Cl.2018.01: A 61K 36/185(2006.01), A 61K 36/00(2006.01)

(57) Abstract: This invention discloses a novel plant based phytotherapeutic formulation derived from methanolic extracts of Lantana camara and Markhamia lutea leaves for the treatment and management of toothache. Phytochemical screening confirmed the presence of bioactive compounds, including tannins, alkaloids, terpenoids, and flavonoids, known for their antimicrobial, anti-inflammatory, and analgesic properties. The formulation demonstrated potent activity against common oral pathogens such as Streptococcus mutans, Staphylococcus aureus, and Escherichia coli. Developed as a topical powder, the composition effectively relieves dental pain while inhibiting microbial growth. Designed to offer a natural, safe, and affordable alternative to conventional synthetic treatments, this invention holds particular relevance for rural and low-resource settings. Additionally, the formulation is adaptable for incorporation into a dual-function toothpaste by combining it with silica (thickener), glycerine (humectant), and an alkali salt (pH stabilizer). This innovation not only modernizes and validates traditional medicinal knowledge through scientific approaches but also presents a scalable, community-driven solution to oral health challenges

(57) Abstract: An arrangement (600) for manufacturing a reflector for a PTC from a rectangular reflective structure. The arrangement comprises a tensioning device (604) configured to tension a reflector portion of the rectangular reflective structure, such that a surface of the tensioned reflector portion acquires a curvature perpendicular to the tensioned reflector portion's longitudinal propagation, along the tensioned reflector portion's longitudinal propagation. The arrangement (600) further comprises a fixating device (606) configured to fixate the surface's curvature, such that the tensioned reflector portion remains tensioned. The tensioning device (604) is configured to tension the reflector portion of the rectangular reflective structure by pre-forming the reflector portion to a pre-curvature, and adjusting the pre-curvature by applying a torque at a longitudinal borderline of the pre-formed portion. Because the reflector will be maintained tensioned by torques only, it will adapt a curvature of a high precision parabola.

(57) Abstract: Embodiments of the present disclosure relate to mechanism for sharing HARQ processes by multiple configured grant resources. According to embodiments of the present disclosure, multiple configured grant resources share a common pool of HARQ processes. The network device transmits information concerning the multiple configured grants resources and the common pool HARQ process to the terminal device. Further, for one of the multiple configured grant resources, the terminal device selects a HARQ process from the common pool of HARQ processes. In this way, the throughput has improved and the low latency for high priority data is ensured.

(54) Title: METHODS FOR IDENTIFYING HAEMOGLOBIN S OR C IN A BIOLOGICAL SAMPLE AND KITS THEREOF

(51) Int.Cl.:

(57) Abstract: "Methods for identifying haemoglobin S or C in a biological sample and kits thereof"; The present disclosure provides in vitro methods for identifying the presence or absence of haemoglobin S (HbS) or haemoglobin C (HbC) in a blood sample, kits and devices thereof. The inventors have found that HbS shows a substantial decrease in absorption under deoxygenated conditions compared to oxygenated conditions. The inventors expect HbC to show a similar decrease in absorption under deoxygenated conditions compared to oxygenated conditions. The methods, kits and devices of the disclosure employ this decrease in absorption under deoxygenated conditions to identify the presence or absence of HbS or HbC in a blood sample. The methods, kits and devices of the present disclosure are simple, low cost, and provide a rapid way to identify the presence or absence of HbS or HbC in a blood sample in a point-of-care setting.

(51) Int.Cl.: G 03G 7/00, H 03G 3/24, H 04B 1/64, G 10L 21/034

(57) Abstract: Embodiments are directed to a companding method and system for reducing coding noise in an audio codec. A compression process reduces an original dynamic range of an initial audio signal through a compression process that divides the initial audio signal into a plurality of segments using a defined window shape, calculates a wideband gain in the frequency domain using a non-energy based average of frequency domain samples of the initial audio signal, and applies individual gain values to amplify segments of relatively low intensity and attenuate segments of relatively high intensity. The compressed audio signal is then expanded back to substantially the original dynamic range that applies inverse gain values to amplify segments of relatively high intensity and attenuating segments of relatively low intensity. A QMF filterbank is used to analyze the initial audio signal to obtain a frequency domain representation.

(54) Title: A DOMESTIC COOKING STOVE FOR COMBUSTION OF LPG FUEL WITH HIGH THERMAL EFFICIENCY

(51) Int.Cl.: F 24C 3/08, F 24C 15/10

(57) Abstract: A domestic cooking stove comprises a frame that mounts a primary tube, one or more of nozzles for fuel injection, knobs for controlling the fuel injection, mixing tubes for modulating pressure gradient, burner tops for combustion of the air fuel mixture, and pan supports to support the vessel, heat reflectors to reflect heat, and legs to support the frame. Each heat reflector is positioned above burner top to provide secondary air entrainment for combustion by reducing a gap between an inner circumference of heat reflector and an outer circumference of the burner top to minimize heat losses. The heat reflector has a curved orientation to reduce heat transfer in a downward direction and generates eddies that increases heat transfer towards vessel bottom. The legs are positioned below the frame and has a predetermined height to maintain a gap between table top and the frame bottom surface for entrainment of air.

(54) Title: METHOD AND SYSTEM FOR ANALYZING ERROR OF MEASUREMENT DOMAIN BASED ON SINGLE LOAD JUMP, AND STORAGE MEDIUM (51) Int.Cl.: G 01R 35/04
(57) Abstract: A single load jump-based method and system for performing an error analysis on a measurement domain, and a computer-readable storage medium. According to the method and system, a high-density measurement is performed on the loads of a master meter and sub-meters in a measurement domain for a long time, so as to obtain massive load data; then the load measurement differences, before and after jumping, of the master meter and a sub-meter to which jumping occurs are acquired on the basis of the situation of a single load jump; an error deviation of the sub-meter to which jumping occurs relative to the master meter is uniquely defined; and after having obtained statistical data of error deviations of all the sub-meters relative to the master meter, error analysis is performed on the whole measurement domain on the basis of the statistical data (S4), so that an overall error state of the measurement domain, an error state of the master meter and an error state of each sub-meter can be accurately evaluated. The invention is worthy of being widely popularized. Moreover, the error deviation is calculated on the basis of the load measurement differences before and after jumping, so that the influence of an influence quantity error on the calculation result is eliminated, and the calculation result is more accurate.

(57) Abstract: Methods and systems are provided for wastewater treatment that yields continuous zero liquid discharge (ZLD). These include pre-treating provided wastewater from any contaminated water source to remove heavy metals, ultra-filtering the pre-treated wastewater to remove suspended and colloidal solids, nano-filtering the ultra-filtered wastewater to yield treated water (with monovalent ions) and a concentrate, treating the concentrate to remove di- and tri-valent elements and other compounds from the concentrate, and to reduce a level of sulfates to a specified level which is above a solubility level of sulfates - to yield returned water, and sludge, mixing the returned water with the provided wastewater before or at the first treatment stage and/or with the pre-treated wastewater before the ultrafiltration, and removing residual water from the sludge to yield removed solids with ZLD. Advantageously, disclosed processes and systems are efficient, cheaper and more sustainable than prior art systems.

(57) Abstract: A communication device operating in a communications network can determine to transmit information using repetition to a network node operating in the communications network during a random access, RA, procedure. The communication device can further determine a subset of preambles based on determining to transmit the information using repetition. Responsive to determining the subset of preambles, the communication device can determine a preamble of the subset of preambles to transmit to the network node to indicate a type of the repetition. The communication device can further transmit the preamble to the network node. The communication device can further transmit the information using the type of repetition to the network node.

(57) Abstract: Compositions and methods for the treatment of tuberculosis, as well as other mycobacterial and gram positive bacterial infections are disclosed. These compositions contain a highly potent and selective oxazolidinone encapsulated with high efficiency to maximize dosing potential of low toxicity drugs, and are stable in the presence of plasma. The compositions are long circulating and retain their encapsulated drug while in the circulation following intravenous dosing to allow for efficient accumulation at the site of the bacterial or mycobacterial infection. The high doses that can be achieved when combined with the long circulating properties and highly stable retention of the drug allow for a reduced frequency of administration when compared to daily or twice daily administrations of other drugs typically utilized to treat these infections.

(51) Int.Cl.: G 01F 1/68, G 01F 1/692, G 01F 1/688, G 01F 1/684

(57) Abstract: There is described a gas flow sensor assembly for measuring gas flow rate. The gas flow sensor assembly comprises a by-pass tube for coupling to a main tube, a gas flow sensor comprising a heater and at least one temperature sensor adjacent the heater, and a control unit coupled to the at least one temperature sensor. The by-pass tube provides a by-pass passage for a flow of a portion of gas flowing in a main passage of the main tube. The gas flow sensor is positioned in relation to the by-pass tube such that in operation the heater is configured to provide heat to a portion of the by-pass passage and the at least one temperature sensor is configured to provide an output signal representing temperature in the by-pass passage sensed by the at least one temperature sensor. The control unit is configured to determine a change in temperature due to gas flow in the by-pass passage based on output signals from the at least one temperature sensor, and is configured to determine a gas flow rate based on the determined change in temperature. There is further described a semiconductor gas flow sensor, and a method of forming a semiconductor gas flow sensor.

(57) Abstract: The invention relates to a hybrid power plant for autonomously supplying energy to buildings, in particular residential buildings, and industrial facilities which are arranged in an area that comprises a source of biomass. The hybrid power plant is preferably arranged in the vicinity of buildings and industrial facilities to be supplied in order to provide energy locally. The hybrid power plant comprises at least one system for generating power from renewable energy sources and a power-to-X device for thermochemically converting electricity from renewable energy sources and biomass into other energy carriers which are stored and converted back into electricity on demand. In order to supply energy to the buildings and industrial facilities to be supplied during dark doldrums, the hybrid power plant comprises one or more energy storage devices and at least one system for converting energy back into electricity. The supply of energy to buildings or industrial facilities by means of the hybrid power plant is climate and CO

(54) Title: BEAM MANAGEMENT FOR A DEVICE IN AN INACTIVE MODE

(51) Int.Cl.: H 04W 72/04

(57) Abstract: Example embodiments of the present disclosure relate to transmit power control for beam management. The first device transmits a first configuration to a second device. The first configuration indicates information about at least one candidate beam assigned to the second device. Alternatively, or in addition, the first configuration further indicates a correspondence between the at least one candidate beam and a plurality of transmission occasions, where the plurality of transmission occasions are allocated by the first device for transmission from the second device to the first device while the second device is in an inactive mode. The first device detects transmissions from the second device according to the first configuration at the plurality of transmission occasions. Through this solution, a beam management solution and efficient resource configuration for a device in an inactive mode is proposed.

(54) Title: A VALVE (51) Int.Cl.:
(57) Abstract: A valve includes a housing with a central bore, a lead screw, a fluid inlet and outlet, and a barrier inside the housing that partially obstructs fluid flow. A flexible diaphragm with inlet bleed holes is movable towards a closed position where it contacts a valve sealing face on the barrier, preventing fluid from flowing from the inlet to the outlet. A fluid outlet bleed port controls fluid flow from an outlet cavity to the fluid outlet. A valve stem and a connected outlet bleed port seal move within the bore towards and away from a valve sealing face. A motor moves these towards the valve sealing face, causing fluid pressure to build up in the outlet cavity which moves the flexible diaphragm to its closed position. The valve stem holds the flexible diaphragm in the closed position when it is closed.

The system enables a payer to initiate an escrow transaction, temporarily hold funds in a secure escrow account, and generate transaction-specific OTPs tied to unique transaction identifiers and escrow states. OTPs are transmitted to the transacting parties via USSD, SMS, or mobile money notifications and are used to .authorize changes in escrow state, including deposit, hold, release, cancellation, and dispute resolution. The escrow module releases or returns funds only upon successful OTP verification. The invention provides secure, conditional, and auditable transactions entirely within existing mobile money infrastructures, without requiring internet access or smartphones, thereby reducing fraud risk, enhancing trust, and ensuring accessibility for all users .

NAIROBI, Kenya (72) LEAH WANJA MATI (74) (54) AN EDUCATIONAL CARD GAME FOR LEGAL KNOWLEDGE ENHANCEMENT (51) A 63F 1/00(2006.01) (57) An educational card game system for enhancing legal knowledge, comprising a physical deck of cards organized into multiple color-coded clusters, each representing a specific legal category. The system includes six distinct clusters containing twenty-five cards each, with every card featuring a legal question on one face and its corresponding answer on the opposite face. Each cluster maintains a unique color scheme for immediate visual identification and cognitive association between colors and legal domains. The game employs a structured question-and-answer format covering fundamental legal principles, case precedents, statutory provisions, and procedural rules within a specific jurisdiction. The color-coded clustering system enables both focused study within specific legal domains and comprehensive testing across multiple legal genres. Visual differentiation through distinct coloring facilitates rapid sorting, organization, and retrieval of cards during gameplay. Multiple gameplay configurations support various educational settings, including individual study, group competition, and formal classroom environments. The system accommodates a designated card reader, multiple player stations, and an integrated common display for larger audience participation. Game modes include cluster-specific learning, mixed-cluster testing, team challenges, and progressive difficulty levels. Designed specifically for Kenyan legal education, the invention provides an accessible, tactile learning tool that bridges professional legal training and public legal awareness. The physical, non-digital format ensures deployment without electricity or internet connectivity, making it suitable for resource-limited environments. The system transforms complex legal concepts into engaging interactive content while maintaining structural rigor and jurisdictional specificity. Manufactured using conventional card production technology, the game represents an innovative approach to legal pedagogy that combines organized knowledge presentation, interactive learning methodology, and scalable implementation frameworks for diverse educational contexts.

During instruction, learners identify and attach the tags to the corresponding magnetised regions, promoting tactile and collaborative engagement. The model enables experiential, learner-centred understanding of anatomical relationships and may include optional accessibility features such as Braille labeling, colour coding, and visual or audible feedback. It is simple to manufacture, durable, and suitable for repeated educational use.

The apparatus comprises a supporting base on which are mounted molded anatomical representations of the major male reproductive organs. Each anatomical representation is uniquely fitted with an embedded magnetic element for the secure, but detachable, attachment of corresponding magnetic name tags bearing anatomical identifiers. Learners utilize the model to actively identify and label each organ and subsequently describe its function, promoting a highly interactive, visual, and tactile learning experience for effective anatomical study

The model includes a base supporting molded vessel elements representing arteries veins and capillaries arranged to demonstrate their interconnections. Each vessel element includes magnetized regions for attachment of removable magnetic label tokens bearing vessel identifiers enabling learners to identify and label vessels interactively. Visual and tactile cues distinguish vessel types and accompanying instructional materials support guided learning and assessment. The invention provides a reusable hands-on teaching aid that enhances understanding of circulatory anatomy through active participation.

The model comprises a base structure representing the human torso and provided with magnetized regions corresponding to principal digestive organs including the mouth, oesophagus, stomach, duodenum, liver, gall bladder, pancreas, small intestine, large intestine, rectum, anus, and appendix. A plurality of detachable metalized name tags bearing the names of the respective organs are configured to magnetically attach to the corresponding regions on the base structure. During use, learners identify and place the name tags onto the appropriate anatomical locations, thereby enabling interactive and participatory learning of digestive system anatomy. The base structure may be fabricated from wood, plastic, or composite material and may be configured for wall mounting or stand placement. Optional features such as colour coding, tactile markings including Braille, LED indicators, or audible feedback may be incorporated to enhance accessibility and instructional effectiveness. The model provides a durable, reusable, and low-cost teaching aid that promotes active engagement and improved understanding of human digestive anatomy.

The model is engineered with concealed magnetised or ferromagnetic-receiving regions positioned at critical anatomical structures, specifically including the ovary, ovum, fallopian tubes, uterus, cervix, birth canal, and uterine wall. Each name tag bears the printed name of one of these anatomical structures and is configured for secure, reversible attachment to the corresponding region by magnetic coupling. This apparatus facilitates interactive identification and repeated practice, providing a superior, tactile, and visually reinforced method for acquiring and assessing knowledge of an anatomical structures.

(51) C 11B 3/00(2006.01) // (C 11B 3:00 ) (57) A method for the conversion of high-moisture avocado oil processing residues into stabilized, industrial-grade solid biofuels. The invention involves a stabilization process that reduces the moisture content of avocado pits, skins, and pulp to a level sufficient to inhibit microbial decomposition and enzymatic oxidation. The resulting desiccated material is processed into various physical formats-including loose sludge, pulverized powder, chunks, and densified pellets or briquettes-tailored for specific industrial combustion systems. These formats allow for the direct or co-fired replacement of fossil fuels in high-heat applications such as cement kilns, ceramic factories, and industrial boilers. The invention simultaneously addresses the environmental challenges of organic waste disposal while providing a renewable, high-calorific energy source for local industries.

The bag is formed from a polyethylene film comprising a blend of linear low density polyethylene and low density polyethylene and includes a non-toxic rodent repellent masterbatch uniformly dispersed within the polymer matrix. The rodent repellent masterbatch comprises a bitter taste agent, including denatonium benzoate. The polyethylene film is produced by a blown film extrusion process in which the masterbatch is incorporated during extrusion at a temperature range of approximately 160°C to 220°C, followed by cooling, winding, cutting, and sealing to form individual bags.

The system includes a location processing module configured to determine geographic proximity using stored location parameters, an activity analysis module configured to compute authorization weights based on recorded user interaction metrics, and a control module configured to permit or restrict request execution based on aggregated authorization outcomes. The system further includes a prioritization module configured to classify requests based on predefined urgency parameters and to allocate system resources accordingly. Transaction execution is performed through a secure processing interface, and system state data is stored in a distributed data repository. The system operates within defined territorial constraints and provides automated request routing, authorization, prioritization, and execution based on geographic and activity based data parameters.

The spent adsorbents are separated using filtration or centrifugation. The process yields clarified oil suitable for reuse and is designed for affordable local implementation without pyrolysis or hazardous acid treatments

The integrations depend on customized circuitry for receiving, processing and transmitting data to server and to actuator and display of appropriate data by involved parties. The mechanical structure comprises of the feeding channel assembly 15 that feeds ball into Main channel assembly 17 which is pivotally connected to the motor so as to be capable of tilting. The Top Sensor on Top Sensor carrier 18 vertically aligned to bottom sensor attached on balls exit channel 19, senses ball count to determine when a game is complete. Tray front plate 16 and Tray back plate 20 supports the assemblies and gives mounting provision of the tray for screwing to the pool table feedback system. The monocular camera captures images of the environment, and the processing module applies artificial intelligence algorithms to generate spatial and descriptive information from two-dimensional input. The audio feedback system provides this information to the user through bone-conduction or in-ear speakers. The glasses further comprise a microphone for voice-command input, optional haptic feedback modules, wireless communication components, and a rechargeable power supply optionally supplemented with solar panels. The invention falls within the field of wearable assistive devices and is principally used for providing visually impaired persons with environmental awareness, object identification, and navigation support.

7.0 INDUSTRIAL DESIGN APPLICATIONS PUBLISHED UNDER SECTION 87 AND REGULATION 48

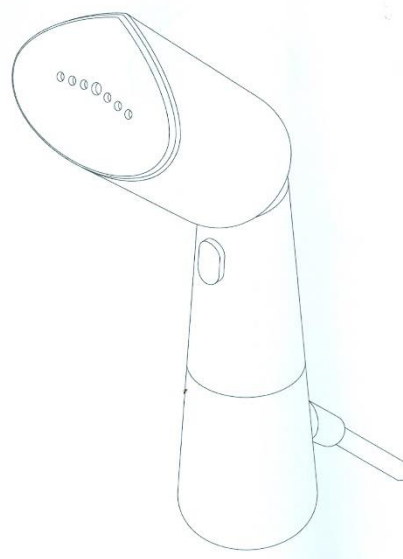

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the Registration of any of the Industrial designs published herein may within sixty (60) days from the date of this Journal, lodge a notice of opposition on form IP 36 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Ksh.5,000/= (local opponent) or US$ 250 (foreign opponent).

The period of lodging the notice of opposition may be extended by the Managing Director as he deems fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Managing Director to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given in writing to the applicant to afford him an opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant. Representations and samples of the designs advertised herein can be seen at the Patent Registry, Kenya Industrial Property Institute, KIPi Centre, 17 Kabarsiran Avenue, Off Waiyaki Way, Lavington, Nairobi.

The present method for removing scale from turbine blades is characterized in that an alkaline solution and a chelating solution are injected into geothermal steam that flows into a turbine during power generation, and geothermal scale formed on and adhered to turbine blades is removed by the injected solutions. The present removal method has improved scale removal effectiveness over conventional methods and makes it possible, in a short amount of time, scale adhering to geothermal turbine blades. The present invention also makes it possible to provide a method for geothermal power generation in which scale is prevented from adhering to turbine blades, and a geothermal power generation system capable of operating continuously without performing cleaning in which a turbine is opened, even when geothermal steam containing 0.1ppm or more SiCO<sub>2</sub> and/or C1 is introduced into the turbine.

9.8 Removal

Section 23 of the Trade Marks Act provides that registration of a trade mark in Kenya shall expire after a period of ten (10) years. The Act also provides that the proprietor of a registered trade mark may make an application for renewal of the trade mark upon completion of the prescribed Form TM 10 and payment of the prescribed renewal fee.

Rule 65 of the Trade Mark Rules provides that where no application for renewal of a registered trade mark is received upon expiry of the ten year period, the Registrar of Trade Marks shall notify the proprietor of this fact. Where no application for renewal of the registered trade mark is received within a period of sixty (60) days from the date of the notice for renewal by the Registrar, rule 67 of the Trade Mark Rules requires the Registrar of Trade Marks to publish this fact.

In accordance with the above provisions, the Registrar of Trade Marks hereby notifies the public that the proprietors of the trade marks indicated below were duly notified and that they did not file applications for renewal of their respective trade marks.

In accordance with the provisions of rules 67 and 68 of the Trade Mark Rules, the public is hereby notified as follows:

Where the proprietor of a registered trade mark makes an application for renewal of a mark that has been published herein and pays the renewal fee together with the additional prescribed late renewal fee within thirty (30) days from the date of this publication, the trade mark shall be renewed and shall not be removed from the Register of Trade Marks;

Where no application for renewal of a trade mark published herein is received within thirty (30) days from the date of this publication, the trade mark shall be forthwith removed from the Register of Trade Marks; and

Once the trade mark is removed from the Register of Trade Marks, the proprietor may thereafter make an application for renewal of the mark upon payment of the prescribed renewal fee together with the additional prescribed restoration fee. The trade mark shall then be restored to the Register of Trade Marks upon the Registrar of Trade Marks being satisfied that it is just to do so and upon imposing such conditions as the Registrar may deem fit.

10.0 MADRID APPLICATIONS ACCEPTED FOR REGISTRATION

The following are the marks whose international registration has been notified to Kenya as a designated contracting Party by the International Bureau, World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) and which are governed by the Madrid Agreement and the Madrid Protocol. The prescribed period of twelve (12) months and eighteen months (18) respectively for refusal of the marks commences from the notification date indicated herein for each mark.

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the marks may, in accordance with the provisions of rule 11(1) of the Trade Marks (International Registration) Rules 2003, file a notice of opposition within sixty (60) days from the date of this Journal on form TM. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Ksh 5,000/= (Kenyan residents) or US$ 250 (non residents).

The period of filing the notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar of Trade Marks as prescribed in the Trade Mark Rules. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar before the expiry of the sixty (60) day statutory period.

All the details of the marks advertised herein are available on WIPO's website www.wipo.int/romarin

2. African Regional Intellectual Property Organization (ARIPO)

ARIPO is a regional body established by African governments to have a central office to among other things, process and grant industrial property rights on behalf of member states. ARIPO grants patents, utility models and industrial designs on behalf of Kenya. Currently, ARIPO consists of the following 16 member states; Botswana, Gambia, Ghana, Kenya, Lesotho, Liberia, Malawi, Mozambique, Namibia Sierra Leone, Sudan, Swaziland, Tanzania, Uganda, Zambia and Zimbabwe. Kenyan applicants are required by law to first file with the Institute before filing with ARIPO. ARIPO secretariat is located in Harare Zimbabwe.

The complete fee schedule for ARIPO is available on their website <http://www.aripo.org>. The

3. Patent Cooperation Treaty

The Patent Cooperation Treaty (PCT) is an international patent protection treaty consisting of over 140 member states. PCT is administered by the World Intellectual Property Organization in Geneva Switzerland. PCT makes it possible for an applicant to seek patent protection for an invention simultaneously in any of the selected member states by filing one application. PCT is a filing system and does not grant patents on behalf of the member states. Applications must enter national phase in the selected member states. In the national phase, the applicant is required to pay the prescribed national fees in the said member states. Further, in some member states, a foreign applicant is required to have a resident agent. The PCT fees as of 1st May 2011 are as follows:

Type of fee	Fee	Fee waivers
International filing fee	USD 1, 367 or CHF 1330	90% waiver for a natural person from Kenya
Search fees  (only one search authority needs to be selected by applicant)	Austria	USD 2, 443	75% waiver for natural a person from Kenya
	Australia	USD 1, 837	None
	China	USD 314	None
	European Patent office	USD 2, 443	75% waiver for a natural person from Kenya
	Sweden	USD 2, 443	None
